CHICKEN DINNER FOR VETERANS ON LEISENRING VISIT

Members of Kurlz Post Entertained in Finest Style at No. 3.

TALK UP MEMORIAL DAY

The public school at J. Arthur N. Dunham took up the cause of the colored people. The school was held at the home of William F. Knapp, Dunham's son-in-law, and the school was held at the home of William F. Knapp, Dunham's son-in-law, and the school was held at the home of William F. Knapp, Dunham's son-in-law.

The three higher grades are made in a form and the entire amount was devoted to the memory of the students followed by speeches including the commander each of whom presented a display subject in the American flag, which in the Brown lived at a private tax office for many years out of Russellville. He died at his home in Russellville, surrounded by one step daughter, J. F. Brown, and one step son, H. S. Brown, both of Brownsville, Texas.

Funeral services were held on April 27 at the Brown home followed by interment in the Mt. Zion Cemetery.

JAMES WARRICK

James Warrick 70 years old, died at 118 North 4th Street, Mill Monday morning, June 18, due to a fatal stroke following a years illness. He was taken to a hospital in Mill. He has three sons, James Warrick, Samuel Warrick and Kenneth Warrick. The wife was at home at the time he died and had always shown an active interest in the township affairs. He had been a member of the Methodist church in Mill, and was a member of the Mt. Zion Methodist church in Russellville. He was about 55 years ago. Besides his wife he is survived by three daughters.

"The Store That Does Things For You."

VICK
FOR Over 100 Years Used

Freedom from constipation, mild or chronic, can be surely in kind for you if you will eat Kellogg's Bran every day! Two rich spoonfuls are sufficient for very cases with which most all of us are afflicted. It is nature's most powerful laxative, and it is the only thing to give a healthy bowel, to be used in all cases, and is prepared to be effective in long illnesses from constipation and it will do that.

But, I asked you to remember! Kellogg's Bran is not a medicine. It is not in the laxative class. It should not be confused with common bran which is unpalatable and hard to eat. Kellogg's Bran is as worthy to the pleasure of the palate as it is to the health of the body. It is the only cereal to serve Kellogg's Bran to make it with hot cereals in preparation. Add two tablespoonsful of Bran for each cup of milk and with this cereal is the health.

Kellogg's Bran is especially delicious in many breads and muffins, pan cakes, hot frittles, etc. Recent years on our breakfast table.

Realize what Kellogg's Bran is doing for constipation sufferers! In overcoming it, it is found what is the cause and cause. The cause is removed and the cure is brought to act should be used. It can be taken regularly, to serve it in every form each day.

You can drive constipation out of your family with Kellogg's Bran— and remove the cause of 90% of human illness. First-class hotel and restaurant service. Kellogg's Bran in individual packages. Ask for it at your restaurant. All grocers.

FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 11, 1928.

TOO SACRED TO COMMERCIALIZE.

Heretofore the observance of Mother's Day has been so sacred by dealers in flowers to honor the price of the tokens people have a desire to wear in honor of their mother, living or dead.

The occasion is too sacred, and should be not as for such hallowed memories, that it becomes a shamful thing for any body to attempt to turn it into a money-making scheme. Every effort in that direction should be resented by every man and woman who wishes to pay tribute to mother by the appropriate custom of wearing a flower on the day set apart for that purpose.

DEBT REGULATOR OF
THE COKE TRADE.

The coke trade is suffering from too much coke. The decrease in demand which began several weeks ago as the result of the embargo laid on shipments for export has been proportionately greater than the decrease in production. Now business has not developed as was expected. In consequence there has been more coke made than the market could absorb.
The immediate and certain effect of such a condition has been, as always, to cause a recession in price.

Contracts for this quarter having been made at prices above the current range for spot coke, producers are keeping the furnace so well supplied that there is no necessity for them to come into the market as spot buyers. So long as this condition exists, and no new trade develops in other quarters, there is every probability that the price of coke will have a tendency to soften still more.

There is the possibility that something may occur to impede the present regularity and sufficiency of our supply, in which case the flow of coke to the consuming points would be interrupted with consequent price appreciation, but there is nothing in the transportation situation to warrant the prediction that our supply will not be maintained at or near the recent average. Conditions in this respect may change materially when the full movement of coal and other traffic begins but that is so far in the future that it can have no effect upon trade at this time.

Steel production is at the maximum and the supply of coke is ample for all needs. The falling off in steel orders is an indication that a further slowing down in demand may ensue.
The mounting cost of building is causing many projects to be held in abeyance or indefinitely postponed.
These and other plainly visible signs are taken to mean that the crest of the wave in the merchant market is near at hand if it has not already been reached.

Under the circumstances the task of the merchant producers is to make a closer adjustment of output to consuming demand as a means of preventing further accumulations of stock and unconsolidated loads. The intrinsic value of Conneltsville coke is too great and the costs of production have mounted so high that no further risk of destroying the stability of the trade should be taken.

Spot sales of occasional lots of so-called "distress" coke at relatively low prices do not fit the market, but every such sale when made at solicitation of the seller instead of the buyer and unsupported by a growing demand, does have a very material effect in establishing the market range. True, a flurry of some kind would very quickly clear up any surplus of coke now in the region, but further somelike have the habit of being followed by slump. In any event they are not always the most dependable means of relieving unsatisfactory conditions in the trade. The best regulator is a supply equal to but not in excess of demand.

REPRESENTATIVE BIRCHMUND
PRESENTS AND YOUNG.

A statement was inadvertently made in this column yesterday which does an injustice to Representative Birchmund of the First Legislative District.

Instead of being absent from the House when the vote was taken which eliminated the item of $250,000 for enforcement of the prohibition law from the general appropriation bill, Mr. Birchmund was present and voted against cutting out this item.

Representative McDaniels of the Second District was the only member of the Fayette delegation who was absent when the vote was taken.

The State Federation of Labor in action at Harrisburg in drawing some very fine distinctions. One day it "resolves" against the courts issuing injunctions to preserve public order and protect the rights of citizens. The next day it donates Alex Flovat, foe of the Kansas courts, the privilege of airing his views on injunctions and other issues.

The explosion of the Texas gusher differs somewhat from other catastrophes in this field. It caused loss of life while more frequent "blowups" have caused the loss of the life time savings of many confiding investors.

Ford, Evangel of New Era in Coal

Coal Trade Journal.

Henry Ford of Detroit as the evangel of a new era in coal production and distribution will excite more interest in the popular journals of the day than he will in the coal trade.
That does not mean that the enterprising "River" king is to be ignored;
he is too positive a force for that—even when he is wrong.

Although his recent acquisition of the holdings of the Peabody syndicate in eastern Kentucky puts him in the front rank of coal-land owners, there is no more justification for assuming that this purchase pre-figures a revolution in coal trade history than for assuming that a like upheaval was to flow from his purchase of the Hammer Pork properties a few years ago or of the Ford Creek operations a few months ago. The coal business, like railroading, is too big for one man domination or control.

Nevertheless, the injection of Mr.
Ford into the coal business on a large scale will not be without its advantages on both sides. Of course the plans that he may have with respect to the still undeveloped acreage he has acquired from the Peabody syndicate remain a mystery, but the coal trade can learn something from Mr. Ford and, we trust, Mr. Ford can learn something from the coal trade. Now ideas, and old ones given a new application, are always interesting—doubtless so when the ideas are advanced by Mr. Ford because he has the financial resources that enable him to test them out where less wealthy dreamers can only dream.

Outside of the coal industry, there has been a strong disposition to criticize the business of mining and distribution as hopelessly mismanaged. This undercurrent can be found in many comments of men in other lines of industry. Mr. Ford, both in the public prints and in his own Dearborn Independent, has not been backward in this regard. While he has the advantage of the struggle held on a larger tongue if he chooses to live up to his statements because of his immense purchases, that advantage will not wipe out all the difficulties that confront the coal operators and distributors not so fortunately situated.

How he will cope with these difficulties, therefore, will be not only interesting, but an object lesson to business generally. Out of it may even come greater appreciation of the problems that are the daily lot of the coal men. And if Mr. Ford can teach them anything new and worth while, they are not too proud to learn.

Just Folks

Edgar A. Guest.

WORDS

Words are like people, passing every day.

Stance, scornful, cheerful, brave and good and bad.

Some clean and fresh as youth and just as glad.

And others old and worn and pale and gray.

Some words there are which trip along the way.

Some dwell with sorrow and are always sad.

Others are like silver and peerly old.

And thus our voices are told in all we say.

Since from the passing throng I would not call
Have men and wife to walk life's path
with me,
But want the brave and wise, and, first of all,
The clean and true to share my company.

Shall I make friends with ugly words
and base,
Seeking the good to choose the common plan?

CANADA SEEKS TO FORESTALL SHORTAGE OF FUEL NEXT WINTER

OTTAWA, Ont., May 11.—Federal and provincial governments of Canada are trying to find a way to meet next winter's fuel demands without leaving the country wholly dependent upon the United States, having in mind the threat of embargo last fall when American communities were suffering from a shortage.

Canada has vast stores of both soft and hard coal, but transportation difficulties will prevent their development so long as the Pennsylvania-West hard coal field continues to produce and there is no check on exports. Testimony before a Senate committee indicates that Nova Scotia can meet all demands for soft coal. The search for substitute for Pennsylvania anthracite has not been successful.

The richest hard coal field known in Canada is in Alberta. It is far removed from transportation lines and, as one expert said, "it might as well be in China." About 200,000,000 tons of fair quality anthracite could be produced there by strip mining, and submarine mining. It would bring out billions of tons. The deposit is in the Hay and Smoky Valleys of Alberta.

HAZELTON, May 11.—Mrs. S. C. Jack, of this city, who recently passed her 80th birthday, has entered Brown University at Providence, R. I., according to her son, the Rev. Robert P. Jack, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church here.

Mrs. Jack, who is the widow of a minister prominent in the Lehigh Valley, years ago went to Providence to spend a few months and decided to take the summer course at the university.

Pile Sufferers

Can You Answer These Questions?
Do you know why hemorrhoids do not give you quick and lasting relief?
Why cutting and operations fail?
Do you know the cause of piles is internal?
That there is a stagnation of blood in the lower bowel?
Do you know that there is a harmless remedy discovered by Dr. Leonard and known as HEM-ROID, now sold by Connellsville Drug Co., and dispensed generally that is guaranteed?
HEM-ROID builds a pile by removing the cause, by treating blood circulation in the lower bowel. This simple home treatment has an almost unbelievable record for safe and lasting relief to thousands of pile sufferers. There is no reason why it should not do the same for you—Connellsville Drug Company—Advertisement.

KOBACKER'S TO BE KNOWN AS NELSON'S

Tomorrow, Saturday—3rd Big Day

3rd Big Day of Our Great Sale

HEART OF THE SEASON SALE

Hundreds of thrifty Connellsville people have flocked to Kobacker's to share in the mammoth sales event that means savings for them—every item advertised with hundreds of other extra special offerings have made this sale the sale of sales—every department has tried to outbargain every other department in offering savings that are amazing. Thrifty people who have taken advantage of the Heart of the Season Sale offerings have not been disappointed, neither will you, if savings of One-Fourth — One-Third — One-Half and even more appeal to Connellsville shoppers the store will be crowded to capacity tomorrow. Every item is our regular stock, strictly firsts and guaranteed as represented.

Tomorrow—Third Day of Our Great Sale

We advise early shopping. Stocks are now complete—yet the unusual demand for these goods is fast reducing the quantity, with little hope of our being able to renew them. The early shopper will be the one who gets the bargains.

Now Does Housework Without Suffering Drego Drives Away Stomach and Kidney Troubles

Drego Drives Away Stomach and Kidney Troubles.

When a woman is compelled to do housework suffering pains in the back caused by diseased kidneys, and stomach trouble, life is unbearable. Mrs. Joseph Snyder of Illinois for years had been enduring such suffering. She tried many different medicines without success. Then her brother suggested that she try DREGO. It helped him so.

"Before taking DREGO I suffered terrible pains in my stomach and back," says Mrs. Snyder.

"Now after taking several bottles of DREGO I can do my housework without the least bit of suffering."

"DREGO has done me so much good that I wish every woman bothered with stomach or liver trouble would take this wonderful medicine."

DREGO is composed of the juices and extracts of many different roots, herbs, barks and leaves which act on the stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels and purifies the blood. It relieves constipation, prevents gas forming in the stomach, increases the appetite, insures sound, refreshing sleep, banishes catarrh of the bladder and takes the pain out of rheumatism.

DREGO is being distributed to the people of Connellsville by the Connellsville Drug Company. Call on them. And let them tell you of the merits of this wonderful remedy. They will honestly tell you whether or not they think DREGO will benefit you.—Advertisement.

Philadelphia
Police Insured
For $7,000,000

By United Press.
PHILADELPHIA, May 11.—Three thousand five hundred of the 4,300 members of the Philadelphia police force have just been insured under a blanket life insurance for $7,000,000.

The officers covered in the policy are members of the Police Beneficiary Association. Under the terms of the policy the life of each of the 3,500 is insured for $2,000.

Each policeman will pay $42 a year for the policy and the annual premium is $147,000.

The policy is one of the largest group policies ever issued.

London to Open World's Largest Aquarium in June

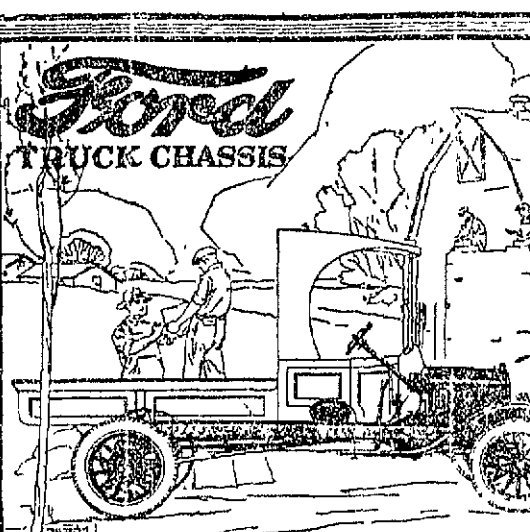

LONDON, May 11.—England is soon to have the biggest aquarium in Europe, if not in the world. It is located at the Marine Terrace in London and will be completed in June.

It is to cost half a million dollars.

More than 100,000 gallons of water will be required to fill the tanks, which will contain fish and water fauna from all parts of the world.

Natural sea water will be used. This will be brought from the North Sea up the Thames and taken to the zoological gardens in barges.

CULBRANSEN

The Player-Piano

The Gulbransen Educates, Inspires, Entertains

Your son—your daughter—will take the Gulbransen right into their hearts and lives. First playing for the pure love of fun, they will unconsciously progress to an understanding and appreciation of the very best in music.

Your wife—and you, yourself—after the day's cares, need mental and moral stimulation. Surely the Gulbransen, playing delightfully any piece of music you wish to hear, provides that.

The Gulbransen entertains—and educates and inspires as it entertains. It will lift you out of the rut, broaden your vision, and make for higher ideals in your home life.

The Gulbransen is easy to play—and easy to play well. You'll be surprised how quickly you become skilled—how soon you learn to bring out the very soul of music. Four simple instructions rolls easily teach you how.

John Robinson's Circus and Trained Wild Animals Appear Here Tomorrow

Harness and chain, leading, steady, changing of shod hoofs on the pavement, the unloading of heavy wagons and the setting of remaining benches, will indicate to all the residents of Connelville, who are about early tomorrow morning, that "Circus Day," a combination of July Fourth, Christmas, and numerous other holidays, is once more with us.

Hundreds of boys and girls, and also grown-ups, will be in the railroad yards in great numbers, when the long, gaudily painted trains of the John Robinson Circus and Trained Wild Animals roll into town. All of them will tell you that this action marks the arrival of "Circus Day," the last and best of the year.

Before many of us have taken the cold shower, and also pulled a mean "Giffels" against the grain of the one or two days' old beard, the great gray tent will be raised toward the morning sky and an army of people and animals will be on the way to the circus grounds, where they will take the efficiency and system of the circus folk.

The Paramount

'WOLVES OF THE BORDER'

This feature today and tomorrow at this theatre, presents Franklyn Farnum in the leading role.

"Wolves of the Border" is the story of a mysterious band of men headed by a daring leader, known only as "The Wolf." "The Wolf" was secure in his position as he posed as a well-to-do ranch owner and enjoyed the confidence of the community. His marauding went on unobserved until Dick Donahoe, owner of the El Fandito, determined to rid the country of "The Wolf" and his band. There is comedy gallop, when "Skeeter" Hanson, whose only record in life was that he had never married, suddenly finds his dream of a girl in Aunt Martha. Action and thrills are plenty, and a cooking heat is staged at the finish. This is the type of story that is bound to please.

"Wolves of the Border" almost cost Mr. Farnum his life. The story called for an ambush scene with Farnum the victim, and a fall from his horse. This fall was a bit too realistic, frightening the horse, which in its trampled Farnum to death before he could be rescued.

The Orpheum

'THIRTY DAYS'

Showing today and tomorrow at this theatre, presents Wallace Reid in the leading role.

Mr. Reid has the role of a wealthy young man whose sole ambition is to marry a girl with his fiancée, and who is while engaged in a work of charity that he innocently offends a vicious Italian who swears to kill him. How the Italian tries to fulfill his vow and how Wallie prevents him from doing so by going to jail, for a basis of many comically funny situations. Here are a few of them.

The plight of John Caldwell, played by Reid, is a man whom all the girls are crazy about; the melodramatic but comic part of John with Robert when the latter finds John apparently kissing his wife; John's scheme to get away from the murderous Polenta by getting sent to jail for 30 days; scenes in the prison, and the arrival in jail of Polenta whom John hopes to see.

RECALLS TRAGEDY OF MATTERHORN

Last Survivor of Party Who First Capped Peak Dead.

FOUR CLIMBERS LOST LIVES

With the death of Peter Taugwalder, who has just occurred in his native village of Zermatt, Switzerland, at the age of eighty-one, passes away the last survivor of the famous Alpine tragedy of the Matterhorn. On July 14, 1865, when after reaching the summit of the mountain for the first time four of the party were killed during the descent. The climbers who undertook on that occasion one of the most courageous enterprises ever entered upon in the Swiss Alps consisted of the Taugwalder father and son, and Michel Croz as guides, and Whymper, Hudson, Hudson and Lord Francis Douglas.

Croz, Hudson, Hudson and Douglas lost their lives by falling during the descent not long after leaving the summit. The older Taugwalder died long since and Edward Whymper passed away a few years ago.

Peter Taugwalder the younger—as Whymper calls him in his book—was thus the only person who could speak as a witness concerning the descent with which he was so closely associated.

Young and Inexperienced.
When he left Zermatt on July 13, 1865 to take part in the expedition which Whymper had so long planned, Taugwalder was a young man and had not yet acquired the knowledge which was to make him afterwards one of the most famous of Alpine guides. The summit was reached without mishap and after an hour's rest the descent was begun. It was decided that Croz who was the most expert should go first in order to help Hudson who was very reliable should go third followed by Lord Francis Douglas, Peter Taugwalder, the older, and finally Whymper and Peter Taugwalder Jr.

Whymper in one of his books describes what happened as follows: "At the only spot which had presented any difficulty during the ascent, Michel Croz had put down his ax and to assure Hudson a safety was engaged, solely in directing his footsteps by placing the foot of the young tourist one after another in the positions they should occupy. As far as I could judge no one was descending at the moment I cannot be sure as Croz and Hudson were partly hidden from me by a rock."

Tells of the Tragedy
"By the movements of their shoulders I judged that Croz was turning to descend himself, a few steps at that moment Hudson slipped, fell on Croz and knocked him over. I heard Croz's cry of alarm and instant at the same moment I saw both slip away with fearful rapidity. A moment later Hudson was dragged after them as well as Lord Francis Douglas. It all happened with the rapidity of lightning."

Hardly had the older Peter and myself heard the exclamation than we gripped the rock with all our strength. The rope suddenly stretched, jerked violently. We held on as best we could but unfortunately the rope broke between Taugwalder and Lord Francis Douglas just half way between them. For a few seconds we could see our unfortunate companions sliding with fearful speed upon their backs their hands stretched out trying to save their lives by grasping some point of rock. They disappeared, one after the other before our eyes without having received the least wound and rolled from abyss to abyss till they reached the Matterhorn glacier, 4000 feet below.

Three days later the bodies of the unfortunate Alpinists—with the exception of that of Lord Francis Douglas, which was never discovered—were found and brought down to Zermatt, where they were buried.

Since then Peter Taugwalder had made 125 ascents of the Matterhorn.

EVEN HOGS CLOSE DOORS

Farmer Trains His to Pass Through Those That Swing
B. A. Park, a farmer living near Muskogee, Okla., who is also a successful stock raiser, has interested a lot of farmers in his unique and successful way of training his hogs to pass through a swinging door in his hog house.

Desiring an nearly an airtight hog house as possible, Mr. Park placed a door in the house which swings both ways. He was puzzled when the door was first put in place to know how it was going to operate. I bit upon an ingenious plan. Knowing the inquisitive nature of hogs he first placed a clout in such a position that it held the door open while he was enough for the pigs to insert their snouts and push their way into or out of the house. After a few days use of the door in this way he took away the clout, allowing the door to close tightly. By this time however, the hogs had learned that all they had to do was to push slightly against the door, pass in or out and the door would swing back into place.

Another City Official Praises Tanlac For His Restoration

HARRY C. HANEY

Harry C. Haney, 1307 Parrish St. Philadelphia, an Inspector in the city department of public safety for the past nineteen years is one of the thousands who have become aware of the remarkable powers of the Tanlac treatment. He says:

"I wouldn't think of being without a bottle of Tanlac in the house. For eight years I suffered continually from severe attacks of acute indigestion. I spent money and spent money trying to get relief but with no results."

Even my first dose of Tanlac seemed to soothe my stomach, and now I can enjoy the heartiest meal with no fear of after troubles. My appetite and digestion are so good I've gained fifteen pounds and feel well in every way. If anyone wants to know more about my case, I shall be glad for them to call on me."

Tanlac is for sale by all good drug stores. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

Tanlac Vegetable Pills are Nature's own remedy for constipation. For sale everywhere—Advertisement.

CAN GO LONG WITHOUT FOOD

Healthy Human Being, Drinking Plenty of Water, Will Survive Fast of Forty Days.

Some weeks ago a pig disappeared from its sty on a Cornish farm. Search was made, but the creature could not be found, and was given up for lost. Twenty-four days later a man posing as an old mineshaft heard something below, and made a search. There was poor piggy, some thirty feet down, quite unharmed, and it was spending its last moments.

It was thin, but otherwise not a bit the worse, and at once started feeding ravenously, says London Answer.

It takes a long time to starve a fat pig, which can actually lose half its weight before it dies. Most full-grown animals can go without food for a long time, and can lose as much as two-fifths of their weight before succumbing. An exception is the mole, which when deprived of food, starves to death in less than 48 hours.

A healthy human being can fast 40 days if he or she takes plenty of water. A case is on record of a woman going 48 days without food, during which time her weight decreased from 148 to 99 pounds.

Children cannot fast for long without fatal consequences. They collapse after a fast of three to five days, and lose a quarter of their weight.

Snakes, of course, are the champion fasters. The big python in the zoo recently went more than two years without a meal.

THE LIGHT OF WESTERN STARS
A Romance

"Evidently she does. I rather think she is in for a surprise. Now, still, well, you are 'leet and you can see the situation. I want to see to it that they stay here, but I do not want that to be at the expense of the feelings of all of us, or even any one. Helen will bring a truly crowd. They'll crave excitement—the animal. Let us see that they are not disappointed. You take the boys into your confidence. Tell them what to expect and tell them how to meet it. I shall help you in that. I want the boys to be on dress-parade when they are off duty. I want them to be on their most elegant behavior. I do not care what they do, but I want them to take to protect themselves, what takes they choose, so long as they do not overstep the limit of kindness and courtesy. I want them to play their parts seriously, naturally, as if they had lived no other way. My guests expect to have fun. Let us meet them with fun. Now what do you say?"

Stillwell rose, his great bulk towering, his huge face beaming.

"Well, I say it's the most amazing idea I ever heard in my life!"

"Indeed, I am glad you like it," went on Madeline. "Come to me again on Monday. After you have spoken to the boys, then, don't forget I have suggested it. I am a little afraid. You know what cowboy folk are. They say, 'You look on me like a cow!'"

"Don't say a word on that score," interrupted Stillwell. "He was assuming and being, but he's busy to tell you Madeline believes him. 'I'll give the boys to me. Why, don't they all swear by you, same as the Mexicans do in the tropics?' They won't disagree you, Miss Madeline. They'll be simply hammering. It'll be any show you ever see."

"I believe it will," replied Madeline. "Very well, we will consider it. Best of all, guests will arrive on May tenth. Meanwhile let us get the Messing's kitchen in shape for this in."

On the afternoon of this 10th of May, just after 4 o'clock, Madeline had received a telephone call from Link Stevens, concerning the arrival of her guests. "Oh, Madeline, I've called her out upon the porch. Stillwell was there. He's a fellow who, by his words, but subtle and his eagle eyes, I've taken the first at value. Let's see, perhaps twenty years in this line. He's a fine fellow from the valley floor, and I'll stand up to him."

"Look," said Florence, peeringly. "What is that?" asked Madeline. "Link Stevens and the automobile!"

"Oh, no! Why, it's only a fellow who's shown he's a fellow, and the boys had just arrived."

"That's a look with the glasses," said Florence.

One glance through the powerful binoculars convinced Madeline that Florence was right. And another glance at Stillwell told her that he was speechless with delight. "Well, as Link says, I wouldn't be in that there automobile right now for a million dollars," he remarked.

"Why, is Stevens driving?"

"Good Lord! I say, Miss Madeline, there's never been anything except a streak of lightning run so fast in this country. I reckon I'll be to have when Link drives up, but I want to be with the boys down by the bunk. It'll be a couple of days. Link has a mighty when Link comes for the day."

"I wish Al had stayed to meet them," said Madeline.

Her brother had rather hurried a shipment of cattle to California; and it was Madeline's supposition that he had welcomed the opportunity to absent himself from the ranch.

"I am sorry he wouldn't stay," replied Florence. "But Al's all business now, and he's doing nicely. It's just as well, perhaps."

"Surely. That was my pride speaking. I would like to have all my family and all my old friends see what a man Al has become. Well, Link Stevens is running like the wind. The car will be here before we know it. Florence, we've only a few moments to dress. But first, I want to order many and various and excellent and refreshing for that approaching party."

Less than a half-hour later Madeline went again to the porch and found Florence there.

"Oh, you look just lovely!" exclaimed Florence, impulsively, as she gazed wide-eyed up at Madeline. "And so nice so different!"

Madeline smiled a little and, perhaps when she had put on that exquisite, white gown something had come to her of the manner which befitted the wearing of it. She could not resist the desire to look fair once more in the eyes of these hypercritical friends. The sad smile had been for the days that were gone. For she knew that what society had once been pleased to call her to carry had faded since it had last been seen in a drawing-room. Madeline wore no jewels, but at her waist she had pinned two great crimson roses. Against the dead white they had the life and life and richness of the desert.

"Link's hit the old round-up trail," said Florence, "and oh, isn't he riding that car?"

With Florence, as with most of the cowboys, the car was never driven, but ridden.

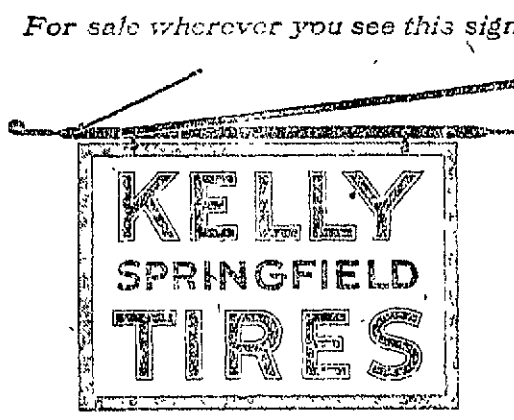

A white spot with a long trail of dust showed low down in the valley. It was now almost straight to the link. Madeline watched it growing larger moment by moment, and her pleasurable emotion grew accordingly. Then the rapid beat of a horse's hoofs caused her to turn.

and softer voices of women united in one glad outburst, as much as thanks giving as a greeting. "Majesty!"

Helen Hammond was three years younger than Madeline, and a slender, pretty girl. Having requested her breath soup after Madeline took her to her room, she began to talk.

"Majesty, old girl, I'm here; but you can't but I would never have got to here if I had known about that ride from the railroad. You never wrote that you had a car. I thought this was our West-shore-club and all that sort of thing. Such a tremendous car! And the road! What kind of a chauffeur is he?"

"He's a cowboy. He was crippled by falling under his horse, so I had him instructed to run the car. He can drive, don't you think?"

U. M. W. OF AMERICA IS SEEKING MASTERY OF COAL INDUSTRY

Says Manufacturers Record, Commenting on Report to Coal Commission.

"CHECK OFF" A WAR FUND

"That complete mastery of the coal industry is the purpose of the United Mine Workers of America, and that utter ruthlessness in methods employed is the intention and practice of the organization in attempting to carry out this purpose," is the conclusion reached by any investigator with an open mind," declares the Manufacturers Record. "The court records are full of judicial opinions rendered to that effect. The Fact-Finding Coal Commission is having the facts laid before it, and the country and Congress will have plenty of opportunity for intelligently studying the situation before the summer is over."

"In a brief filed with the commission by Henry L. Stinson, former Secretary of War, and Goldthwaite H. Dyer, counsel for the bituminous operators special committee, it is charged that no matter how earnest and enlightened the policy of the operators in dealing with their employees may be, and no matter how disinterested the operators' as to whether their men join the union or not, the union insists upon complete mastery at any price."

"Wherefore, the counsel for the soft-coal operators urge upon the Fact-Finding Commission and the public that the nature and purpose of the miners' organization are fairly described in the following summary:

First—That the aim of the organization of the U. M. W. of America is to establish complete mastery of the coal industry."

Second—That it is attempting to let its men perfectly established communities in which it controls all the economic life of the community."

Third—That the policy and methods of the United Mine Workers do not appeal satisfactorily to the miners to induce them to pay the heavy taxation to support it. Its members will not so ungrudgingly pay its dues for any length of time. Witness how in this case the locals established in these mines were unable to survive. It requires the system of enforced taxation by the check-off to keep the organization alive. This is further evidence of the fact that the miners are not an industrial democracy."

Fourth—The effort to solve the labor question by methods of democracy and cooperation cannot be successful unless it is protected against the use of force by this organization of mine workers. This is a sure protection is given by government and law there is no reason why the operator but to protect himself."

"No less an obligation rests upon the public to protect itself from the subjugation and slavery that would follow the complete mastery of the coal mining industry by the United Mine Workers," says the Record, in commenting upon the foregoing summary."

"With every time unbalanced, the union executives could impose a check-off system, to force in every unbalanced mine, a certain sum is held out by the employer from the miner's pay envelope and is turned over regularly to the union representative."

"Already this sum amounts to millions—possibly $25,000,000 a year. With every mine a member of the union, and obliged to pay tribute to the union executives through the check-off, the executives could have enormous power and a cash fund of a gigantic size and potency as to menace the business interests of the country. Any conditions could be imposed—six hours a day and five days a week are already taken off with a wage scale which would pay for the week an extra $1.00 as at present, if not longer. A state of war on society would be the result, or complete subjugation of the mines."

Search for Contract.

A French company has obtained the contract for two new locomotives for the Shinnock Ste. Railway, on the basis of the low bid tender in competition with American, British, Belgian and German concerns."

P. R. R. Coal Consumption.

During the 24-hour period from 12:00 a. m. to 12:00 p. m., the P. R. R. consumed 14,329,107 tons of coal."

Weakness Developing In Spot Furnace Coke Market With Decrease in Demand

Extended Beyond So-Called "Distress" Coke Held for Destinations.

PRICE RANGE $5.50 TO $6

Shipments on Contracts Reveal Furnaces of Necessity of Buyers Spot Coke, Removing Stimulus Price Stiffening Foundry Field.

Special to The Weekly Courier
PITTSBURGH, May 9.—The spot market has gone from bad to worse in the past week, and offerings were for nearly exceptional, at all prices, have become sufficient to spread to make the market not, which is substantially down 50¢ in the week from the previous week. Practically, the market is much softer than a week ago, it is really a case of the market being weaker than expected on the surface.

Operators are making a strong talk the intrinsic value of coke, and that the spot market means little, being made by only a very small tonnage of coke. That is partly true in its way, but consumers find that while the market may mean little, the demand is similar still, prices would not yield.

Weakness in the spot market is to be prevailing, by the operation of a law often seen working in the coke market. When the spot market is below the level at which contracts are being made, the operators are disposed to ship all possible on their contracts, the better the contract delivers the less chance there is of any one running short of coke and going into the open market for spot.

Thus the greater the disparity between the spot price and the contract price the less demand there is for spot.

Week and more ago the offerings of spot coke at under $5.00, and on any day a buyer could not secure all he might want at $5.00. The next day the market might be $5.50. In some quarters it is estimated that it would not require much of a take the softness out of the market but on the other hand it is estimated that the curtailment of production by merchant operators in the past few weeks has been by way of drawing coke less often in the week rather than by blowing out ovens, so that with greater demand there would be ovens in blast and men available to work them, so that coke could not easily become scarce at this time. A more likely cause of stiffening in the coke market would be a shortage, for while the railroads have been performing very well of late there is a very heavy volume of coal and coke moving and just a little curtailment in movement would probably bring a good many consumers into the market for spot lots.

Coke operators continue to keep an eye on third quarter contracts and are indisposed to lower their price views materially by reason of the present softness in the spot market. Many operators are talking $7.00 as the minimum price they are disposed to consider for third quarter, but not all operators are in the field in this respect, for some would probably be quite content to enter contracts at $6.50, a price that was recently down on contract and thus has standing as a market quotation.

Furnacemen are not negotiating at all for third quarter coke. Recently several inquiries came into the market. These have not been formally withdrawn but they are not being presented. They remind one of the farmer's call, about which there was some question. The farmer admitted he had not killed it, but claimed it had not died. "It just kind of gin out," the position of the furnacemen in general is that they cannot sell pig iron for third quarter and the coke market seems to be moving in their direction, hence they have no incentive to contract at this time. Foundry coke continues in very fair demand, comparing the buying with that of a month or two months ago, but the offerings have been growing heavier and hence with greater competition the market price is lower. The foundries are probably consuming as much coke as at any time. The market is not quotable as follows: Spot furnace $5.50 to $6.00 Foundry $6.00 to $6.50 Spot furnace $6.00 to $6.50 The Pittsburg district coal market continues in very easy position. There is some demand for lump coal, but not as much as there would be were lake navigation not so very late in opening. The lake shippers have the advantage in the market and buy only at their own prices, say from $2.50 or $2.60 down, for 3-1 fuel, according to grade. Steam mine-run continues at about $2.00. Connelville and Fairmont steam coal has been going at less still. By-product coal is high relative to steam coal but altogether has experienced quite a decline from its level late in March, when best grades brought $3.50 for April or for the second quarter. Lately the spot and prompt market has been about $2.25 to $2.50 for the medium grades and $2.50 to $2.75 for the higher grades. Not a little business in the good grades, is being adjusted from week to week at $2.75.

Production of pig iron since late in March has been at the highest rate in the history of the industry. The softness in the coke market cannot be attributed to any fault in coke consumption, which is certainly as heavy as could be asked for. The very heavy production is presumably accountable in large measure for the continued softness in the pig iron market, which has now lasted about seven weeks, and has been turning into actual stagnation. The situation, indeed, is such that prices quoted as "the market" are practically nominal, there being so little business that no real test is afforded. There are sales, but they are only of carloads or "bottom lots," not enough to prove anything. What is regarded as the quotable market is as follows:

Best iron $21.00
Basic $21.00
Foundry $21.00
Medium $21.00

These prices are for a. h. Valley furnaces, freight to Pittsburg being $1.77.

Saving Railway Fuel.
In their effort to save coal, railroad officials are going to lengths that were never dreamed of a few years ago, and in fact would not have been justified when prices were lower. The Reading is a case in point. Besides doing everything possible to encourage engineers and firemen to use coal efficiently, the management has recently ordered not to permit the right-of-way and pick up jumps that have fallen from passing trains. The coal collected in this manner is used on work trains.

Captain Ben Funk

Ben Funk, son of Congressman Frank Funk of Bloomington, Ill., has been elected captain of the 1924 boxing team of Yale university. Young Funk has attracted much attention as a boxer and has easily defeated every opponent he has met.

Schaefer Made Good With Promised Blow

Even today baseball fans delight in recalling some of the comical stuff the late Germany Schaefer used to perform on the ball field. Once when the Tigers needed a run to make things interesting in an extra inning game at the old White Sox park on Thirty-ninth street, Germany performed.

Manager Jennings had called Schaefer in from the coaching line to bat for somebody. Germany, stalking up to bat, turned to address the crowd in his characteristic fashion.

"Schaefer will now hit a home run," he said. And the best part of it was, he did slam a four-bagger into the left field stand one of the longest hits of the season.

Another time Schaefer was coaching for the Washington club. He proceeded to inform the crowd as to the various signs used by the battery and by his own batters.

"The Senator at the plate had drawn two strikes and three balls when Germany shouted, 'Here's the safe hit signal!'

The batter promptly fanned. "He crossed me," yelled Schaefer.

Bought Own Release to Sign With Atlanta

Ray (Shoots) Dowd, having purchased his release from Dallas, decided to tie up with the Atlanta club of the Southern league, where salaries paid are high and surroundings guaranteed to be pleasant. Dowd, it is stated will play second base for the Crackers. Indubitably it seems to be admitted that Dowd didn't actually pay for his release, as Atlanta put up the $2,500 that it cost to release him.

NEW PARIS WRAPS

Capes and Coats for Outdoor Wear Are Very Rich and Picturesque.

Parisian designers are reveling in wraps. There has been a fine development in this direction, and at all the openings gorgeous specimens were shown, according to a Paris correspondent in the New York Times.

Madeleine at Madeleine are partial to capes simple in line and made with great width. They have one wrap cape made with full pointed inserts at the sides which fold together in front with a graceful closing. The same effect is repeated at the back. The long sides fall almost to the ground and they are so handled that they form sleeves without seeming to do so.

Premet is showing a lovely wrap made of rip and covered with the handsomest sort of embroidery, which forms a series of arabesques over the entire front of the garment. This same embroidery, then is repeated on the rolling collar and on the end of the wide sleeves.

Jenny's wraps have the largest and most ornamental sort of sleeves, some of them made with godets inserted over the shoulders which fall to widen the sleeves at their lowest edges. This makes these coats of the softest of silks and satins.

Carot has a wrap coat that is full as to the sleeves, with the largest sort of sleeves, and a collar trimmed with fur. Some of his wraps, made of plain materials, have collars shaped from handsome brocades and embroidered materials.

Poirot has a wrap covered with embroidery in a large flower pattern that has every semblance of the most modern designs. It is very full in design with a gracefulness of movement that is impressive.

Marion Belle has a very usable cape made with two materials which can be worn either side out. There is a high collar that adjusts itself becomingly around the throat and head, no matter which side of the mantle is exposed to the public gaze.

At Doucet's there is to be seen a picturesque sort of cape made of white silk. Its high rolling collar has black velvet fur, alternated with white of the same sort. This fur in black and white combination is again used for the trimming of the wrap.

Feet is showing wraps extremely reserved in their first appearance, but which are found to be made in a very intricate manner. They are bound and faced with narrow metal ribbons or provided with panels faced with gorgeously woven ribbons. Some of the afternoon wraps are trimmed with a series of little capes superimposed over the longer cape line and these are trimmed with embroidery and Oshawa brocade.

Pussywillow Material for "King Tut" Dress

This new dress with Egyptian markings is made of pussywillow material. It is of vermilion red, and royal blue.

Gray Velvet Girdles Among Spring Fashions

Gray velvet ribbon girdles or sashes embellished with lavender or orchid velvet ribbon with artificial flowers forming the center of the knot are among the smart things for spring. Grosgrain ribbon also combines in bows and girdles and sashes with a velvet ribbon. An effective bow that resembles a flower is made by tying a single knot loosely at the end of each loop of ribbon. With a background of velvet ribbon tied in tailored loops, such as grosgrain or more ribbon is indeed artistic and easy to look at.

Lace and Beads. A very lovely frock of tan lace made over tan chiffon is bordered by an elaborate leaf design in black and green beads. The neckline about the waistline is held in by large beaded buttons.

Largest Finest-Best Equipped Baking Powder Factory in the World

It grew from a modest beginning. Demand for Calumet compelled it to grow. Calumet proved so economical—so much safer—so much more satisfactory in every way—millions of housewives bought and used it, which increased the sales over 2 1/4 times as much as that of any other baking powder. For years they have continued buying and using—with every passing year multitudes of new customers come to Calumet.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST BAKING POWDER

CALUMET

The Economy BAKING POWDER

Skilled workers are clad and gloved in spotless white. Wide window area allows a constant inflow of nature's purifiers—sunshine and fresh air.

The absolute uniformity of Calumet is guaranteed by maintenance of our modern laboratories and kitchens. Analytical chemists test Calumet for purity and leavening strength. Expert chefs test it for baking quality.

It is utterly impossible for you, at any time to obtain a can of Calumet that is not strictly up to the Calumet standard of "Best by Test."

Its superior quality meets every baking requirement. It insures greatest baking savings and guarantees better baking results. In any baking—you are always assured tasty, tender, evenly raised goodies that are thoroughly wholesome.

Calumet is sold at a moderate price. You save when you buy it—you save when you use it—has more than the ordinary leavening strength—therefore you use less.

Try it. Stop taking chances. Stop paying exorbitant baking powder costs. Make a "best by test" Calumet trial today.

Your grocer will return purchase price if you are not better satisfied with Calumet than you ever were with any other brand.

Don't Overlook This!
A pound can of Calumet contains full 16 ounces. Some baking powders come in 12 ounce instead of 16 ounce cans. Be sure you get a pound when you want it.

Spring Fashion Notes of Interest to Women

In the spring models (slopes) chine frocks are accompanied by capes to matrix.

The sport sweater is becoming gaudier in its coloring and we find them embroidered in brushed wools of contrasting colors.

Smart street shoes for spring are of patent leather with a modified heel and tongues made of plaited ribbon atached to the shoe with cut steel buckles.

A new material of marked distinction is a sheer crepe of firm texture which serves as a background for the most exquisite embroidery in gay colors simulating cross stitch. Long, straight coats of sand colored wool and silk are now and very attractive. One particularly lovely model is of heavy crepe covered with fine embroidery in the same tone. A collar and cuffs of violet aquiline add to its chic.

The plain yellow or orange sweater is no longer considered "chic" unless its sleeves and edges are embroidered in several colors. For instance, a yellow brushed wool jacket has a wide border at the bottom of jacket and sleeves of gray and black wool on holiday. The all-ones are using contrasting stripes throughout them. Satin, moiré and grosgrain claim first attention because of their style dominance, but faille, tulle and velvet all claim a prominent place in the sun. The reddish browns and greens, the orange yellow tones and reddish-purple shades gayly flaunt their colors, while black still claims its own more frequently trimmed with gay colors than was true last season.

Sporting World

By JAMES M. DRISCOLL.

Work on Putting Fayette Field Into Shape for Ball Season Will Begin Monday

Force of Men Will Scraper and Roll the Infield's Present Plan.

BIG SEASON EXPECTED

Work on Fayette Field towards putting it in shape for use on Saturday, May 19, will begin Monday morning. Nothing was done this week because of the visit of the John Robinson circus scheduled for tomorrow.

The management of the Connellsville Independents is very optimistic over the outlook this season. It is generally believed the Cokers will be the "brightest" squad ever mounted to enter here and the fans will have a real aggregation to support if the men stand up to their performance of last season.

Of interest to fans, the baseball team of the M. J. Athletic Club of Perryopolis is anxious to arrange games with other clubs. For games write William B. Baker, Perryopolis.

The Pittsburgh Nationals, at Brooklyn, found it necessary yesterday to postpone another baseball game because of the poor weather. The Giants and Cubs were also idle but the St. Louis Cardinals moved into third place by defeating Philadelphia, 7-4.

The White Independents will meet the Trump Run Sluggers at Poplar Grove this evening at 5:30 o'clock.

The contract for the erection of a grand stand has been let by the Uniontown Independent baseball organization. The work on the laying out of a diamond has also begun.

Tennis fans did not get much enjoyment out of the courts this week. Monday evening was the only one at which playing and also then, inclement weather has prevailed. It was thought this morning the courts would be too wet for use this afternoon unless the temperature warmed up considerably.

The small boy is delighted to have a circus visit the city but the expression of one who is glancing at the date on a poster in a window typifies the thoughts of many. "Aw, rats," he decried, "that circus had to come on Saturday and now we won't get away from school to see the parade or anything."

The stage is all set for the 15-round fight to take place at Madison Square Garden, New York, tomorrow night, between Floyd Johnson and Jess Willard and Louis Firpo and Jack McAuliffe.

Sporting Squibs of All Kinds

Harold Ruel has been picked for the "place of honor" on the Washington team.

Pancho Villa may have lost his flyweight title, but he still fights like a champion.

This year Cobb has as one of his assistants, Fred Gutsch, veteran big league catcher.

The London club of the Mint league has signed a pitcher whose name is given as James Ostronach.

Fred Graft, veteran third baseman, has been potted again, the Atlanta club having sold him to Little Rock.

Catcher Pritchard and Howard Shanks, formerly of the Senators, seem to be happier with the Red Sox.

The prince of Wales won a telephoto and it has also been observed that the President usually wins at golf.

A poultice is a pullet deprived of two pairs of producing eggs, with the object of saving size.

Wonderful for Sick Stomachs

That's what every stomach sufferer says after taking one of the doses of Dr. Orr's Great Stomach Prescription.

Everyone who takes it willingly acknowledges that it does cure indigestion and certainly battles dyspepsia and other stomach distresses almost instantly.

Here's one better than will give you an idea of what it can do for you.

When Saturday, May 12, 1923, I wrote, "I was glad for several weeks to go to hospital after getting no relief from doctors and many other remedies that I tried. Unable to work, and confined to the house, I was advised by a friend to try Dr. Orr's Great Stomach Prescription. I had no faith in anything but my own strength, but I tried it and to my happy surprise it did me good. I am now perfectly well and can do my work as usual. I am feeling everything I want and in no time to come."

Money does it. Dr. Orr's Stomach Prescription does not do what we say it will, and no wonder that this remarkable remedy is the prescription of a famous physician who used it with great success in cases of such cases. It is a part of our daily life. It is a part of our daily life.

Manager Wade Killefer

Wade Killefer, brother of Bill Killefer, manager of the Chicago Cubs, who has just been elected manager and is part owner of the Seattle baseball club. With Wade Killefer in charge of Seattle and Marty Krug in charge of the Los Angeles team, it is expected that the Chicago Cubs will have plenty of young material available at all times.

Olson Places Himself as an Assistant Coach

"I have just figured out what my job on this ball club is," said Ivan Olson, the Brooklyn Dodgers' veteran infielder, at camp the other day. "From now on I consider myself nothing but third assistant coach. All I think I have to do is to sit on the bench looking wise, and every now and then I'll give the second assistant coach a little advice. About the middle of July I might have to go in and take the place of some young infielder who may be showing signs of slipping. That will be a pretty good time to start the season. If they want me to play before then I will be ready. Everybody likes their base hits, and I am no exception."

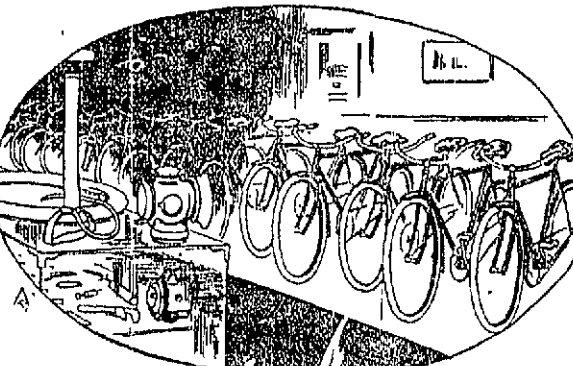

Indians Should Make Double Plays Easily

Few teams are going to make more double plays than the Cleveland Indians, this season, if the work in the South is any criterion. Lutzke has shown himself a capable man at striding double killings at the far side of the diamond while Wamby has few equals as a pivot man. Guffy to can receive throws with all the skill of Melhals and is a faster man in getting the ball away in case there is need for a return throw. With his improved throwing, he going to function better on the two-play executions than in the past. It is lifting into a net when a batter drives at one of the Indians' inner four.

The Birmingham club of the Southern league announces the signing of Harry Randolph, captain of the baseball and football teams of Bethany college, at Bethany, W. Va.

Walter Alexander, veteran catcher, who will manage the Marlin team in the new Texas association this season has enlisted another veteran, Pitcher Earl Flaherty, to assist him.

Worthiness of the Cause Doubles Interest in New Presentation of 'The Bonus'

The fact that the proceeds accruing from the second presentation of 'The Bonus,' under the auspices of the Kiwanis Club, are to be devoted to brightening the lives of the underprivileged children of the city, is doubling public interest in the coming performance.

The cause is conceded to be a worthy one—one that in past years has not received its full share of public attention. But generous attention of the two performances to be given will assure that these children will be well taken care of for a year to come.

The play itself has been revised for its second presentation and the cast has been appreciably strengthened. The original scenic effect created in much favorable comment that it is decided to use them again without change.

Tickets for "The Bonus" are now on sale at the Connellsville Drug Company, Hiss's Drug Store and at Hottel's. Every Kiwanian is also provided with a supply. As soon as additional numbers are printed, tickets will be placed on sale at other convenient points throughout the city.

"The Bonus" is to have its second presentation in the High School Auditorium next Thursday and Friday, May 17 and 18. Anyone who has the interests of Connellsville's less fortunate children at heart will not fail to attend, it is believed.

MADE ODD BOUNDARY 'LINE'

Explanation of Compound Curve That Settled Dispute of Early Colonial Days.

When William Penn obtained a grant in Pennsylvania he was very desirous of owning the land on Delaware bay to the sea, and procured from the duke of York a release of all his title and claim to New Castle and a radius of 12 miles around it, and to the line between that tract and the sea. Lord Baltimore protested, but in 1683 the Lords of trade and plantation made a decision in Penn's favor.

The tract which now constitutes the state of Delaware, Penn called "The Territories," or the "Three Lower Counties on the Delaware." They were governed as part of Pennsylvania for about 20 years. In 1776 the inhabitants declared them a separate state. Then ensued a long-drawn-out dispute between Delaware and Pennsylvania over the northern boundary line. Because of the inaccuracy of the original survey of 1701, no single curve could be made to pass through the station set up to mark off a radius of 12 miles around New Castle. An attempt to rectify the line was made by the United States Coast and Geodetic survey, but when a number of Delaware residents found they would be geographically in Pennsylvania they raised such a howl that the survey was dropped, and a joint boundary commission was appointed to settle the dispute. A compound curve was found to connect very closely to the original line, and it was adopted.

SAW OMEN IN SNAKE'S VISIT

Reptile's Appearance in Seminole Indian Council Induced Tribe to Accept Government's Offer.

Old Indians relate that in the deliberations which led to the cession of the Florida lands to their home in the West, the Seminole chiefs were still stubborn and rebellious, and the sentiment was entirely against accepting the proposition of the government. At this time a large snake entered into the council grounds and slowly coiled himself and looked around upon the gathered tribesmen as though beseeching them to take counsel of his movements. For a short time he stayed, and then slowly uncoiled himself and leisurely took himself to the westward.

The snake was taken up by an omen by the chiefs and the medicine men, and upon a vote being taken it was unanimously voted to accept the terms of the government and go westward as required. Thus many lives and much expense were saved.

Another curious legend among the very old men is that the "Mingoesse" the redskins, will some time come and help the Seminoles to regain their lost lands. This comes about probably on account of some old promise made by the British during the fighting days of the Revolution or the War of 1812. And even as late as the Green Pench war, in the early 80s, the old Seminoles proclaimed that the Great war had come and that the "Mingoesse" were coming with great guns to aid the Seminoles in winning the white man and regaining their lost lands.

SNAKE MAKES FINE MOUSER

Don-Constructer Takes Place of House Cat in Some Mexican Households, and Does Well.

In Simlao, on the west coast of Mexico, is the old town of Mazatlan, which, because of its position as a port of call, has an interesting history of various and numerous bombardments which took place during the never-ending revolutions in Mexico.

"Mazatlan," translated, means the "place of the deer." It could well be called "the place of the parrot." For these beautiful birds are sold along the sidewalk by peddlers. On the swinging doors of the hotel—if one is dining in a hotel—house with such a name—is invariably seen a grave marker, sitting like a magistrate, and passing judgment on the passers-by. But this is not the only representative of the animal kingdom in the hotel. For it boasts of a 10-foot box constructed which hangs lazily from the ceiling or is curled up in a corner. Here the box constrictor is the mouser. The Mexicans use it with great success in the place of the ordinary house cat. And it is no more dangerous than pussy herself. The snakes are faithful in their work and take the entire responsibility themselves of killing off rats. For it is found in their territory they take the precaution of removing any rivals in their art by first eating the cat.

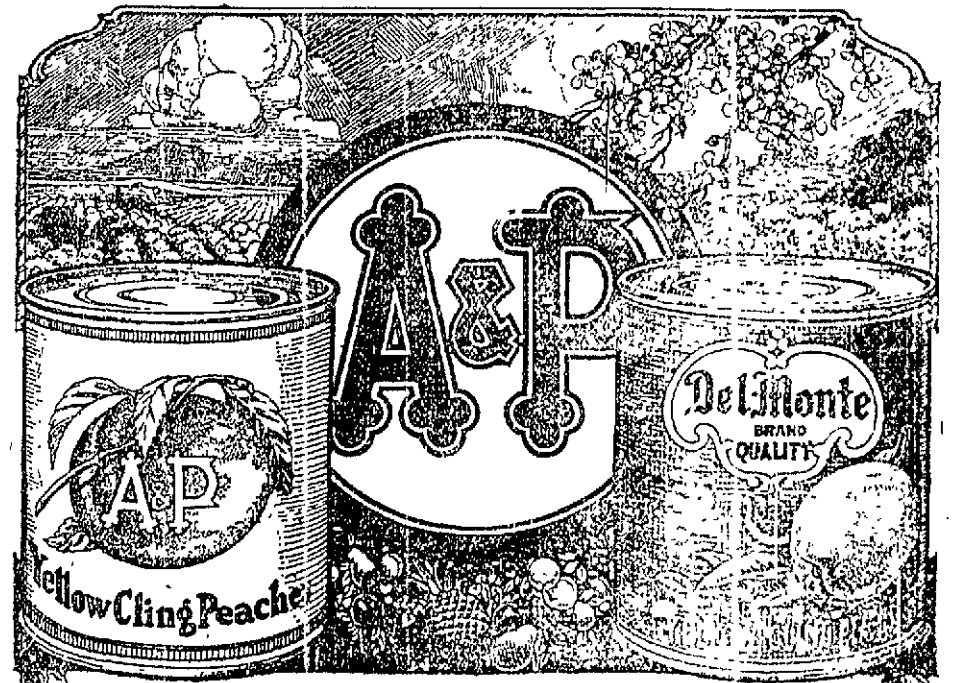

Only human. Things were not going to suit the stage manager, who became vociferous. "Speed up that farce." "We are speeding." "Then speed up a little more." "Then, you can't make a stage farce look like a movie."—Connellsville Courier-Journal.

WOMEN FOUGHT AS SOLDIERS

Pension Records Disclose One in '76 and One in '61.

BOTH REAL "FIGHTING MEN"

The unique records of two women serving as private soldiers, one throughout the Revolutionary war and another in the Civil war, fighting on the battlefields and being wounded have just been discovered in the pension bureau files.

Both women, one from Illinois, succeeded in hiding their sex from the other soldiers, and the fact that they were women was only disclosed when they were awarded pensions. Their names are Deborah Gannett and "Albert" D. J. Cashier or Hodgson, and they are the only women in American history who were paid pensions for actual military service.

The first of these woman warriors was Deborah Gannett of Massachusetts. She enlisted April 1781 in a Massachusetts regiment commanded by Col. Henry Jackson under the assumed name of Robert Shurtliff, and served until November, 1788, as a private soldier, when she was honorably discharged.

Fought at Tarrytown.
She fought at Tarrytown where she was wounded and was in the ranks when Lord Cornwallis was captured. Her real identity was revealed after the war, and in 1868 Congress passed a special bill for the relief of her heirs, awarding them a pension in which she was described as Deborah Gannett a soldier of the revolution.

The second woman was Albert D. J. Cashier, whose real name was Hodgson, but whose Christian name was never revealed. She enlisted as a private in Company G, Ninety-fifth Illinois Infantry in August 1867. At the time she joined she was nineteen with blue eyes and auburn hair. She gave her occupation as a farmer and her residence at Belvidere Ill.

She went through the entire campaign with the Ninety-fifth Illinois Infantry, was in the engagements leading to the fall of Vicksburg, including a charge against the beleaguered city. She also participated in the Jackson and Vicksburg campaigns, the Red River expedition, capture of Fort De Russ, and the battles of Old River, Chautauville, Mansura and Little River.

In Thickest of Fight.
In April 1864 she was in the thickest of the fight at Chautauville, Miss. where the regiment lost heavily in killed and wounded. Later she participated in the battle of Nashville and the pursuit of General Lee's defeated army, and was at Franklin, Shiloh, Iuka, Lawrenceburg and East Port.

After being discharged she returned to Illinois and worked on a farm, herding cattle. Later she was awarded a pension and became an inmate of the Soldiers Home at Quincy, Ill., and remained there until her death in 1905, when she was 61 years of age.

It was on one of the occasions while employed by the St. Louis and North American Mill that she was struck by an automobile, and it was while recovering from the shock of the accident that she was discovered. She pleaded with the physicians not to reveal her sex. She died at Watertown, Ill., in 1915.

An investigation of her early life, conducted by the pension bureau, resulted in the discovery that she was born in Tupper Head, Ireland, where with a twin brother, she lived a short and dreary life in native attire because she could do her work better.

GERMAN OFFICER IN BOLIVIA

General Kundt Said to Have Renounced His Nationality.

Gen. Hans Kundt, during the war, a commander of a Prussian regiment of grenadier guards, has had his German nationality renounced in order to accept the appointment as minister of war of Bolivia, a position which he received by fleeing to Berlin. He organized the Bolivian army before the war and returned to that country in 1910. The present is never objected to his position with the army as a German patriot and he became naturalized when he came to Bolivia, and to the government post.

Approximately 1,500,000 acres of the world's surface are covered with vineyards according to a grape-growers' trade journal issued in Berlin. Europe contains 92.7 per cent of the total acreage.

Italy has more vineyards than any other country, its plants amounting to 42.82 per cent of all vineyards in the world. Spain ranks second with 18.1 per cent, then France with 15.5 per cent, while Germany at the present time has only 7.2 per cent.

The Bandanna Is Used to Decorate Pajamas

The vogue for bandannas which has spread since the war, has finally invaded the field of women's sleeping garments. At least this is so in the case of a popular pajama model for women is made with a collar that closely resembles the vivid articles now in such high vogue for street wear. A two-piece pajama suit for women that has been put out bears a striking resemblance to a sports shirt except that it is trimmed with a ribbon flaring of a contrasting color.

The newest thing in the treatment of nightgowns shows a use of silks with limited edges. These appear in the skirt of the gown as well as in the shoulders to which are attached various novelties in the way of sleeves.

How to Get Used to Noises

What I like about the neighbor hood and the enthusiastic "cat" out of the house is the quiet. For I live in a elevated and no heavy trucks thundering through our streets as they do in the suburbs. Why I think—

Just a minute, I checked his "clock" from 1 to 10. You live in a quiet neighborhood that you have the noise to tell me that yours is a quiet neighborhood. What about the cats and harbor critters that come up and down the back stairs all night? Well, I admit it. I live in a quiet neighborhood. I live there. But I never hear one now.

I really said the Manhattan man "Just what I thought. Used to you now. That's just the way it elevated and the back stairs about me now. Any neighborhood quiet if you live there long enough." New York Sun.

Many Philippine Dialects

The language spoken by the native inhabitants of the Philippine Islands is a variety of dialects, some as different as English and French, and others as different as the dialects of the English and French. But all these languages of dialects belong to one or other of two classes: those of the Malay race and those of the aboriginal inhabitants, the Aetas or Negritos.

Beavers Drive Away Deer

A well known guide offers a solution as to the reason for the scarcity of deer in places where the beaver is very numerous. A large part of it he attributes to the work of the busy little animal. The beaver, he says, builds a dam across a brook that flows through a swamp. This overflows the swamp, kills the beaver, and drives the deer from his winter home.

Marriage and the Hero

"Marriage is like a future life. Of neither state can mortal man obtain any insight. Information with a man has to cross the threshold and find out for himself how matters stand."—Lionel Lincolnson, by Dumas.

PATRONIZE THOSE WHO ADVERTISE

MAY BE KEY TO ANCIENT CULTURE

Find Relics Belonging to Hitherto Unknown Indian Tribe.

SOME OBJECTS ARE UNIQUE

Simultaneously with the discovery of the tomb of Tut Ankh Amen which Egyptologists expect to yield a mass of new material about the culture of the Nile, archaeologists have found in this country remains of a prehistoric culture, supposedly that of a hitherto unknown Indian tribe which it is believed, will throw new light on the lives of the inhabitants of this country before the arrival of the white man.

George G. Hovey, director of the museum of the American Indian, also foundation, New York, has characterized the discovery of these remains as the beginning of a new chapter in American archaeology. Unearthed in rock shelters in Missouri and Arkansas by the expedition of the American Museum of Natural History, some of the objects are unique, and others are of a type not known hitherto to have been used by the early inhabitants of this section of the country.

The articles offer the scientific alluring clues which may require months to follow to any solution. But even the unscientific observer can see in them the beginning of an absorbing story. Mr. Hovey selects as one of the most important subjects for study a complete horn with a wooden handle and the shell of a large fresh water clam for a blade. No such implement has been discovered before.

Almost equally interesting are two complete hutchets and a "flrowing stick." The collection also includes a large assortment of fine work bone and baskets, a well preserved bird-skin bag and a specimen of a human skull, and a large assortment of other things the use of which has yet to be determined.

First of Their Kind

These articles are of especial significance because they are the first of a perishable nature found so far to the east of the United States with the exception of those discovered in the Salts cave in Kentucky. Hitherto such quickly decaying objects as textiles, baskets and woodwork have not been found east of the mid region for the reason that in the rainy parts of the country they could not withstand weather conditions.

The preservation of these newly discovered objects was due to the fact that the prehistoric people who used them lived in rock shelters and when the articles were discarded or buried the overhanging rocks prevented the rain from reaching them.

Most of the discoveries were made in the White river valley of Arkansas and Missouri. Three years ago Mr. R. Harrington, who heads the project, set out to "collect ethnological specimens in this section with his expedition was attracted by native ruins and objects found locally which seemed to be Indian remains. Mr. Harrington, who according to Mr. Hovey can "smell an arrow ten feet under ground," began an investigation and found caves and rock shelters with indications of Indian or aboriginal occupation.

Actual work was not begun until last summer. From July until early in the expedition sent out by the Museum of the American Indian carried on, and resumed work again after Christmas. Investigations will be continued until May, when the expedition will return East and Mr. Harrington will begin the study of specimens.

Found in Dry Caves

"The keynote of this discovery," explained George H. Pepper of the museum, "is the fact that the articles have been found in dry caves. Where you find dry caves, you may also find material preserved which tells an interesting story of life long before. In the dry caves of New Mexico, Colorado and Utah, the remains discovered are desiccated. The bodies were more perfectly preserved than in Egypt, where artificial means were used to preserve the bodies of the dead."

The people whose life articles also were found in the caves were not on the faces of cliffs rather than in caves. The projecting rocks there preserved the objects from the rain which is not infrequent in this region.

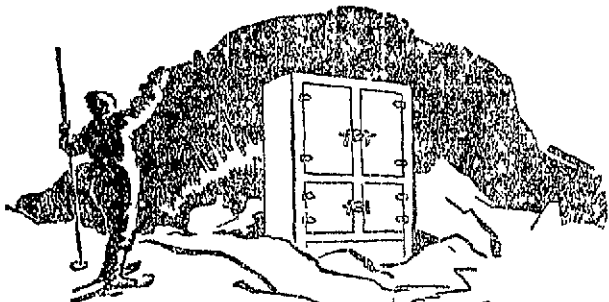

All of the objects found were buried in the dry earth. Some had been in contact with the bodies of the dead for the use in the future life according to the well known Indian custom. Others probably discarded by their Indian owners were covered by sections of rock which fell on them from the overhanging rocks.

After centuries of drought, the soil in the shelters is so dry that the excavators are compelled to use gas masks. The earth is dug away with small excavating tools and pulverized as carefully as a pharmacist works up a powder. When traces of bones are discovered it is sifted so that no minute fragment of Indian remains may be lost.

The articles are then carefully packed and shipped to the museum where they are washed and treated with preservatives if necessary. Each item is numbered and catalogued by Mr. Hovey himself. No article no matter how small or apparently insignificant is overlooked. Fragments are carefully kept for comparative work but as it is never known when a complementary piece may be found that will explain the fragment.

Hovey and Hatcher

Most of the collection is stored in the basement of the museum until examination has been completed. Among the three objects of the collection, probably the most significant are the hutchets and the "flrowing stick." The hutchets are of a type not known hitherto to have been used by the early inhabitants of this section of the country. The "flrowing stick" is a well preserved bird-skin bag and a specimen of a human skull, and a large assortment of other things the use of which has yet to be determined.

GIBSON Refrigerators

Careful people are selecting the GIBSON.

Firstly because its value is so definitely established—its quality is high—its price is reasonable. Secondly housewives have recognized the advantages of sanitary refrigeration. By perfect drainage the GIBSON provides clean, dry air. Rounded corner construction makes the GIBSON easy to clean—and to keep clean. Super porcelain is a superior type of lining made only by GIBSON. Thorough insulation means economy of ice and a patented air tight lock definitely seals the doors.

You can have scientific refrigeration in your home with the GIBSON.

which a fibre cord has been run to fasten it to the handle. The cord is in fact and the implement is just as it must have been when the original Indian owner last laid it down.

Special interest attaches to the hutchets because they were found complete with the wooden handle. Stone axe heads have been found before but east of the mid section the complete implement is rare. The whole number found east of this region is believed to be less than a dozen, and of this number two were found in the rock shelters now under investigation.

One of the hutchets or hatched axes or tomahawks is of the Celt type with the smooth stone blade set directly into the handle. Each time the weapon struck an object the blade became more firmly set in the handle. It was a weapon of warfare. Mr. Pepper explained and to judge by its appearance one would have thought it would have been adequate for the complete elimination of the enemy. The other axe was used for utilitarian purposes, has a chip flint blade.

A discovery which puzzles the authorities of the museum is that of a number of small sticks with furled ends. To the Indians they look like pencils. Like a pencil in the toothbrush. Since they were found and stored in the ground at intervals of about 18 inches the theory was advanced that they were used for sticking out skins for drying but Mr. Hovey expressed himself as unsatisfied with that explanation.

FINDS FIGURE CARVED BY ANCIENT MAYAN RACE

One of the most interesting finds of the expedition was a small figure carved by the ancient Mayan race. The figure was found in a cave in the White river valley of Arkansas and Missouri. It is a small, carved figure of a person, possibly a deity or a ruler, and is made of a dark material, possibly wood or stone. The figure is standing and appears to be wearing a headdress or some form of headgear. The carving is very detailed, showing facial features and clothing. The figure is about 18 inches high. The theory was advanced that they were used for sticking out skins for drying but Mr. Hovey expressed himself as unsatisfied with that explanation.

Dr. Marshall H. Saffell, an author and a member of the staff of the Museum of the American Indian, New York, who has just returned from a study of the ruins of the ancient Mayan race in Central America. PA LET IN THE WRONG MAN

Sleepy Old Gentleman Admitted Fellow Tenant and Did Not Know It Until Next Day

Not every household would be as fortunate as was Jones in making a mistake and not suffering for it. It marks a New York Sun writer. The man he let into his apartment two nights ago may have been like his son to him in his sleepy state and he may have been so sleepy or some other way himself that he didn't know the flat but in any event they both were mistaken. And yet nothing came of it.

When Jones Jr. called his father on the phone at the latter's office the following conversation ensued:

Jones—Where you a hotel when I didn't get in last night? I couldn't phone you that I was a long with Bill for the night.

Jones—Do you mean to say you didn't come home last night?

Jones—Yes, no. You ought to know that yourself. You were going to let me in.

Jones—Did let you in? What are you talking about? You let me out of it at 1 in the morning.

Jones—I did a thing of the kind. I never came in till this morning at 10. You must be very stupid.

When Jones got to the apartment he found a note from the tenant above. It read: "Dear Jones, sorry I couldn't see you last night. I didn't know you were coming. I'll be in the room at 10. I had the wrong door. I sneaked out without notice so as not to trouble you further. Hope you didn't think I was a bachelor when you woke up. Yours, Brown."

Queen Ants and Bees

It has been contended that the queen ant has not had justice done to her by naturalists. As compared with the famous queen bee, she is regarded by some as a far more intelligent creature. In fact, they are in many respects diametrically opposite. The queen bee is a legitimate creature unable to flourish either herself or her young to visit flowers to build combs or to store them with honey. While the queen ant quite the reverse is true. She is a perfect example and embodiment of her species and the worker ants and so from it to complete development.

The queen ant is a very stout, fat, and intelligent worker and it is pointed out that she is an exceedingly intelligent subject for study and has no hitherto been well understood.

Everybody Pleased

A young lady at a crowded socialite party was explaining to a circle of admirers that it was a very unusual thing to have a young man with a young woman. She is so pleased and so happy that she is planning to have a young man with a young woman.

Moved Rapidly

A department store was recently told to move its location in a changing neighborhood. The store was a large building and contained many valuable items. The move was a great loss to the owner.
